Residents' interest in full-time boss lags

by GLORIA DAVIS

The subject of Antioch's hiring either a full-time mayor or a full or part-time ad-$28,000 salary to the next mayor of Antioch.

With the advent of the Toft administration and not minding it, that interest seems to be lagging.

· This was shown by the meager attendance ministrator, was of prime interest to many of at the public hearing held on Thursday, June the residents a short time before the election, 25, so that the committee to investigate those when the village board was pressed by full time needs could get citizen input to add popular-demand to forget about awarding a to their findings before giving recommendations to the board.

Although there were 30 people in atand Mayor Ray Toft, admittedly working tendance, as Toft pointed out during the eight hours a day so far for a $4,000 salary meeting, all but 16 were members of the board, village employes or their relatives.

Toft stated that it was a shame that more people didn't seem to care about the matter since it was an "important decision."

The people present seemed more interested in the findings of the committee. than giving much input, although some stated that they thought that Antioch didn't need either a full-time mayor or a business administrator.

After claiming that he thought that the previous administration-had-needed helpfrom the committee because of public pressure previous to the election, Toft asked that his administration be given a least a year to prove itself before any changes would be considered.

One of the complaints of the residents was that those sitting on the committee were not completely representative of the village, saying that it was not a good cross-section since most of the pople on it were professional people.

A dilineation of full and part time, as far as elected municipal officials are concerned, was made, saying that they were expected to work as many hours as needed.

One opinion, that most of the present board members were extremely experienced in municipal government, was given, suggesting that this negated the need for a change of the type of administration, until such time as the number of experienced people on the board would lessen sharply.

Ed Thamerus, committee chairman, said that the committee would return to the village board with their recommendation inside of two weeks.

The News

Santa moves to Antioch

Good news in

" When the 1981 Christmas Season is heralded in Antioch, the village will be the official residence of Santa Claus, as far as the area post offices are concerned.

Up to now, letters addressed to Santa Claus from Milwaukee through northern Illinois, and even from far away towns in Texas, were forwarded to an address in Waukegan.

Last year, over 4,000 letters were received and 1,000 were answered.

-In-many-cases-there-was-a-thirdletter involved from surprised parents or children, who were thrilled to receive an answer from Santa.

According to Dan DeFosse of the Lake County Management Assn., they funded this projet, along with private donations and with a local printing firm donating the envelopes for Santa's answers.

This year the letters will be forwarded to the Antioch zip code with the address of 100 Toyland Rd. waiting to be approved.

This is the only free service of its type in the country, says DeFosse, as he urges early mailing of Christmas lists to facilitate enough time for Santa's reply.

DeFosse added that last year Santa received Christmas lists containing a wide variety of requests including some from 30-year-old single women who wanted a single man for Christmas.

School Supt. Don Skidmore said that there are many options for the use of the building, options that run the gamut from tearing it down, to restoring it for use as a village museum or to rent out as office space.

Parks sets leadership program

Increased Leadership is a brand new program to be held at Antioch Parks and Recreation designed to give children a more supervised and structured playground atmosphere. Two counselors will be on hand to provide the children with organized activities and crafts.

Crafts will include the use of leather, wood, styrofoam, as well as paper and art materials. There is no charge for Increased Leadership Playground other than for the crafts, for which there is a nominal fee.

All children of all ages are invited to come share in the fun and learn crafts and cooperation at the same time. The program meets from 10 a.m. to noon, four days a week: Mondays and Wedensdays at Jensen Park; Tuesdays and Thursdays at Williams Park.

It will run all summer long and can be especially beneficial to those parents who must bring children to the Aqua Center due to swimming lessons.

There will be escorts on Mondays and Wednesdays at 9:45 a.m. at the Scout House to bring children from Williams Park to Jensen Park and back if an interest is shown.

Please contact the Antioch Parks and Recreation Office at 395-2160 if there are any additional questions.

Call it Antioch Style

Antioch has a unique network of interlocking relationships between its vargous civic organizations. Unlike most communities where citizens focus their interest and involvement on one organization, our citizens typically participate in several or more organizations.

Detractors to this heavy civic involvement might say Antioch is a community of "joiners." We look upon multiple organization membership and participation as a special strength, a reason why Antioch is a good place to live. Call it Antioch Style.

An example of what we're talking about is the big annual Lions Club Farmers Picnic and Chicken Barbeque, scheduled Sunday, August 2, at Williams Park. One of the Yeatures is the lively auction that will benefit the Antioch Rescue Squad. There is a heavy cross-membership between the Antioch Lions Club and the Rescue Squad. Typically, workers who cooked chicken last year as Lions, are helping round up auction items this year as members of the rescue squad. The Antioch Lions Club helped organize the rescue squad years ago and has been a strong benefactor since. The interrelationship strengthens both organizations and in the end is a positive force for community betterment.

In scanning the columns of the Antioch News, other examples of the same cooperation and involvement can be seen time and time again. Yes, call it Antioch Style. We're glad that's the way things work p here.
